Arc Infrastructure renews commitment to connecting with local business

Arc Infrastructure has returned as a corporate member of the Regional Chambers of Commerce & Industry (RCCIWA) for a third consecutive year, renewing the company's commitment to connecting with local business in regional WA.

The RCCIWA provides a voice for business in regional WA and connects regional chambers of commerce and business associations with a network that is working hard to make it easier to do business.

CEO of RCCIWA Kitty Prodonovich said Arc Infrastructure's ongoing membership demonstrated the company's genuine appetite to engage and its commitment to being an active part of the state-wide regional business community.

"Arc Infrastructure has been a corporate member of RCCIWA for three years, a relationship that we and our ten members directly involved truly value. A highlight of this membership has been Arc Infrastructure's genuine drive for meaningful community engagement in all of the regional communities that they service," Ms Prodonovich said.

Following on from the success of the Business After Hours events Arc Infrastructure hosted last year, the company will be hosting Business After Hours networking events at each of its member chamber locations in 2018.

"All of the 2017 events were incredibly successful with great attendances, but more importantly they gave the visiting and local crew from Arc Infrastructure the opportunity to meet and speak with so many different local business and community stakeholders," Ms Prodonovich said.

"This type of true commitment to community engagement is just terrific to see and will only further enhance the relationship that Arc Infrastructure has with these business and broader communities."

Arc Infrastructure was the first corporate member of the RCCIWA and its membership provides direct connection to 10 chambers of commerce from within the company's operational area: Albany, Bunbury-Geographe, Collie, Esperance, Kalgoorlie-Boulder, Midwest, Moora, Narrogin, Northam and the Wheatbelt.

Arc Infrastructure hopes to build on the strong relationship it has developed with the chambers in recent years to ensure the company remains connected with regionally driven thinking and planning, and work together with regional people to respond to new and changing freight tasks.

ABOUT ARC INFRASTRUCTURE

Arc is pronounced as a word and not an acronym.

Arc Infrastructure is a leading transport infrastructure manager in Western Australia. We currently operate the State's 5,500km freight rail network, connecting people, commodities and ports across the State with the rest of Australia and the world.

Spread across regional Western Australia, our team of 430 employees keeps the rail network operating 24/7. We live local, buy local and are committed to contributing to regional communities.

Previously called Brookfield Rail, we changed our name to Arc Infrastructure in July 2017 to reflect the aspirations for our future to expand our involvement in transport infrastructure assets. We're committed to working with industry, our customers, partners and communities to find new opportunities that will support and strengthen our rail network for the benefit of WA.
